Our Background

The Roberts Centre is named after E.C. Roberts who made provision in his will for 'the poor children of Portsmouth' in memory of his mother who emigrated to the USA from Portsea.

Situated in Landport, one of the poorest urban areas in the country, The Roberts Centre is a charity dedicated to supporting families who are striving to improve their disadvantaged circumstances, whether due to homelessness, relationship difficulties or low income.

Diana, Princess of Wales, opened the Centre in 1990 and since then, hundreds of families every year have been supported by the work of The Roberts Centre.
